

There is - There are

We use there is and there are to say that something exists.

We use there is (there's) for singular nouns (one item).

◆ There is a book on the desk.

We use there are to talk about two or more things.

◆ There are three pencils on the desk.

◆ Look at the Mary's pencil case and complete the sentences:
use "there is and there are", then colour.

In Mary's pencil case...

- _____ a yellow pencil.
_____ four crayons.
_____ two pens: one is blue and another is red.
_____ a grey sharpener.
_____ a white and red glue.
_____ a blue and white rubber.

◆ Answer to the questions with:

Yes, there is / No, there's not (there isn't)

Yes, there are / No, there are not (there aren't)

Is there a pink ruler? _____

Are there three sweets? _____